

In the Rocks

Editor—I am not an atheist and believe not in man's descent from monkey, but toward the end of the Cretaceous the crustal blocks of the earth were turned upside down in many places and the poles of the earth were reversed, so that the South Pole pointed north and the North Pole pointed south with respect to the heavens, i. e., the present North Pole was, prior to the end of the Cretaceous, the South Pole, etc. The great upheaval terminated approximately 120,000,000 years ago. If it does not agree with someone's interpretation of Scriptures, the reason is that their passing beliefs are effects of mass psychology down the ages.
